Dear Warren;

I am a participant in numerous international shooting matches and am considered an expert in the use of several types of firearms. Over the years I have had the opportunity to travel over the world while attending these matches and I have been introduced to a multitude of products claiming to improve the performance of my equipment.

About a month ago I met Jan Fikkert of your office and he introduced me to your product line claiming it could beat anything I was using now. I was using a molly product and was happy with it but he was persistent enough that I thought I would give it a try on my 308 barrels as I was going to a shoot in California in a couple of weeks..

Can you imagine? There was a significant decrease in barrel temperature after use. Additionally, I found an improved consistent accuracy which I never had before. While using molly, I would have to use several sight shots prior to shooting in the tournament. With the Enviro-Save treatment I didn't have to use ANY sight shots prior to and was extremely consistent from the first round fired.

Thank you for the introduction. I am now treating ALL my weapons with Enviro-Save.

Sincerely yours,
